Charmy and Steve have a history with the Anaheim Angels. After five years of friendship, the couple finally began dating, but decided to keep their romance a secret from their friends. They were found out at game seven of the 2002 World series at the Angels Stadium when a TV camera caught the couple snuggling up together in the stands. Naturally, Steve thought the Angels stadium would be a perfect proposal site. Charmy said yes to Steve while they were tailgating before an Angels' playoff game against the Chicago White Sox. The Angels lost that day, but Charmy and Steve hit a homerun.
