The couple met on a typical blind lunch date set up by a mutual friend. What was not so typical was that they fell in love and three years later were engaged to be married. It happened at the Bel-Air Country Club Annual Christmas Party, during a great night of dining, dancing and celebrating the festivities with friends. Absolutely unaware of what the night would bring, late into the evening, under the brightly lit sky, they walked out onto the swinging bridge to enjoy the view. As they approached the middle of the bridge, Greg fell a few steps behind, kneeled down on his knee and surprised her with the big question, "Nancy, will you marry me?" She screamed, "YES," and he quickly put the ring on her finger, for fear that he would drop the ring off of the bridge.
